

News and Notes

Editorial Note: Leprosy Control and Field Work; Teaching Materials and Services; News and Notes

Due to the extraordinary number of articles awaiting publication, we have taken the decision to use various blank spaces and pages in the main body of the journal for items normally printed separately, under the above headings. We apologize for any adverse effect this may have on reprints and for any inconvenience to our readers in locating information on the items concerned. Editor.

Material for 'Leprosy Control and Field Work' 'Teaching Materials and Services', 'News and Notes'

In recent years it has become increasingly apparent that many readers of this journal, particularly those for whom the scientific articles are of limited significance, greatly appreciate the 'general' pages devoted to the above subjects. These sections are intended to carry information of practical value in leprosy control and the clinical management of patients. Teaching-learning materials, courses of instruction, sources of funds for travel and further study, are amongst the most helpful items. We have no shortage of material for these pages from various parts of the world and would be happy to continue selecting and publishing what seems most helpful. However, it would be preferable (and possibly less biased . . .) if suitable items of information could be supplied by readers of the journal. The presentation should be brief and should include addresses for further contact, details of costs, postal charges, etc, if relevant. We have a circulation of about 1500 to over 100 different countries, with considerable international indexing, 4 times yearly. Please submit suitable material, so that these pages can be used to maximum advantage. Editor.
